About Laura Kaye

Laura Kaye is the vocalist in The Mark Wood Experience (MWE), Vice President and co-owner of Mark Wood Music Productions, Wood Violins, and the Electrify Your Strings! (EYS) series of music education programs, and is also Mark's wife. Along with their son Elijah (who is the drummer in MWE), Laura and Mark have toured extensively with the EYS program for close to 15 years.

As a teaching artist, Laura's role with EYS involves working with choir students during the course of these all-inclusive workshops, coaching them for the performance, auditioning soloists to be featured during the event, and encouraging them to express and explore their individual creativity.

As a recording artist and session vocalist, Laura has worked with legendary musicians such as James Brown, Aretha Franklin, Lenny Kravitz and Sean Lennon and has been featured on countless television shows and advertisements. Laura is also a solo artist who continues to write, record, and perform on her own.

Laura has a lyricism and musicality all her own and is a rock and roll chanteuse whose take-no-prisoners voice invokes the likes of Steven Tyler and Aretha Franklin. Her latest CD "Shake Off the Gravity" was produced by award-winning composer and international recording artist Mark Wood (who co-wrote several of the tracks and plays his 7-string fretted Viper electric violin throughout), and features eight innovative, original songs that range from driving rock and roll to the intensely personal, and includes covers from Aerosmith, Humble Pie, and Aerosmith.

She collaborated with Mark Wood on their "Sanctuary" CD, and was the featured vocalist on "Voodoo Violince." In addition, her vocals appear on "Portrait of an Artist," "These are a Few of My Favorite Things," and the "Prologue" CD and DVD. Along with Mark and the rest of The Mark Wood Experience, Laura appeared in The Mark Wood Experience – Prologue broadcast on WLIW-21 in 2009.
